Leading Local Health Specialist Dies

Jim Sabine, a Senior Counsellor, until recently working in Telford, died after a short illness this week. Jim, previously manager of The Mount Psychological Therapies Centre, had retired only last year after many years working as a counsellor in Shropshire's Department of Psychological Therapies. Craig Newnes, Director of the Department, said, "This is terribly sad news for Jim's family and friends. Jim was loved by many people and brought terrific enthusiasm and kindness to his work. His background in sociology and politics brought a real conviction to his counselling practice. He saw people as struggling with their social circumstances as best they could despite the common tendency to see people's difficulties as arising from personal failings." Craig added, "It was an honour to work alongside Jim He will be terribly missed."
